The Lungovia Native Speakers Project

March 2019

Are you an English native speaker living in the Lungau? Would you like to meet and chat with students? They would certainly love to meet and chat with you and this is an invitation to bring you together:

Local students (age group 14 to 19) eagerly jump at the chance to practice their language skills. You'll find they are good fun to talk to and keen to help you become more familiar with local colloquialism, traditions and customs in return. In fact, it is a great way to get to know more charming locals and make new friends!

The basics: This project is based on volunteers. Nobody pays, nobody gets paid. There is no official organisation behind it. It is a "Lungovia idea" and has the goal of creating a sustainable interface between the Young Lungau (and adjacent Styria, for that matter) and the New Lungau. Win-win with a vengeance!

Our intention is to establish two means of getting together:

ONE: Building a growing pool of approachable native speakers.

Teachers can file requests for activities and/or topics during regular school hours. (mornings)

TWO: Establishing a regular Jour Fixe with specific subjects. Open for all. (afternoon)

How do you join: By letting Nina know you're interested!

There is no need to make any binding commitment. We understand that you want to be flexible and we promise we won't "nail you down". However, we would be delighted if you join us whenever you can and even more so if you help us spread the word and tell others about it. You will be helping our bright and curious youngsters to further their education and become excellent English speakers.

They and the Lungau will thank you for it.

You'll very likely have a good time yourself!
